

which are supposedly on the second floor of Day Care even though it looks like a one story building and is probably some nurses cruel joke.

I

Whose college killed god is in every person you meet

II

They look devoid of spirit oldtime
tombstone eyes unsmiling until you smile them up out of gloom

III

Happiness is and should be the right of every two people

Two of my very exceeding good cigars were stolen from my footlocker and produced me into some tizzy, so that I went to put all my excess pocket change into the bank and this one girl presumably made an honest mistake that I caught and I got charged with accusing her of theft, but I'spose I'm too careful with my change. You can live here for nothing except outbound phone calls.

This evening should be much the same as the rest, but we do have electric air to be modified, I want no violence.
