

How I feel love for you is many named
and rainbow diverse

I see it in nature
a breath of tree scented air

I see it in a pretty woman she compares not to you and your love

I see it in playing puppies exuberance
jumping at the world

I see it in a lake
dazzling lightness in rocks stability and composure

When I see love in you my heart pours
forth the hottest liquid conceivable and I long to pass into dreams in your arms

Dr. L. was untypically evasive today on the ward possible for the presence of prying ears, I gotta get her in her office and pin her down as soon as possible. The frigging ward is really starting to get to me in a bad way. It gives me headaches and nobody wants to engage in conversation.
