

That human lives should not end before
Their normal natural time,
That humans should all create in Themselves their given potentials
And find a measure of happiness,
That no overly ambitious individuals
Should exploit for one second a less
Ambitious individual, by any means,
That humans from their science and
Philosophy identify the workings and edicts
Of a God that all men feel in their souls.
If every human finds that this is good,
And every solution to the human problems
Can be made to work to this good this World would be perfect.
The young scholar left his books
And found the evils and brought
The evil to his brothers' attention,
Unlionized seeing a sense of understanding.
